

If I could create anything for Lesotho.

Lesotho is one of the smallest poor country in Africa and needs lots of infrastructure for its improvement, it is landlocked and therefore its poor infrastructure can never help it be wealthy.

Had I had ability to produce anything for Lesotho, I could create roads throughout Lesotho. Road everywhere, why? There seems to be many criminal activities in Lesotho, so in there are good roads nationwide criminals could be caught and jailed or fined. The police investigators would not struggle to get to the place scene of criminal activity.

Everybody likes having what he or she needs at anytime, for that reason <sup>scarcity</sup> poor ~~road~~ of roads in Lesotho restricts such desire. Farmers from the rural areas of Lesotho struggle when they have to transport their produce to the urban markets. For instance when they ~~take~~ need to sell their wool to the woolsheds <sup>routes</sup>, they have to travel long distances to the market due shortage of.

Who can deny the fact that Lesotho is attractive and needs to be visited regularly? Possibly nobody. Tourists avoid visiting Lesotho for its insufficient roads, so if there were <sup>numerous</sup> ~~many~~ roads there could be no traffic congestion recognised over the streets. Tourists dis hate this congestions and therefore evade visiting Lesotho. How much <sup>designately</sup> a lot of. Moloti could the country gained if there were many roads.

Foreign investors could <sup>have</sup> been all over the country, but because of policy of roads very few of them are available. Investors are only in ~~a~~ urbanised areas where road constructions are good, that means where consumers could ~~have~~ be goods and services.

Thousands of people work and thousands of them are willing to work. How many of them could ~~affo~~ afford to get to work place on time? Probably, very few. Had many roads been build people ~~would~~ would get to work in a meantime. This consequently reduces amount of ~~money~~ income labour earns & not only meagre earnings affect them but also work incentive is reduced.

Both governmental and non-governmental organisations assisting in both natural and human made disasters are restricted from performing their tasks. An accident occurs in Pelatšoeu, where there is only one route to and from; so just because that route is blocked no other route ~~to~~ to take for immediate assistance. There is a saying which goes 'If another route is blocked try another, <sup>then?</sup> so which one.

"Education is the most powerful weapon in the world" words from Nelson Mandela. It is ~~a~~ <sup>the</sup> ~~most~~ <sup>most</sup> ~~powerless~~ <sup>powerless</sup> weapon ever in the absence of roads. Had one be educated, try to ~~start~~ start a business in one of the Lesotho's periphery with no roads, there will be a problem when ~~bring~~ bringing stock into the business <sup>suffer and even collapse.</sup> furthermore there will be a very limited demand and hence business.

Many people could be healed. There are thousands of medicinal herbs at the mountain peaks, if there were roads to the mountains they could be taken and people healed. Thus, this increases diseases in a country and hence contribute to high death rates which negatively affects the economy.

In conclusion, lack of roads contribute to the economic be economic boom and Lesotho be a wealth country.
